

Imaginative drawing

This is drawing from memory or from imagination. It can also be called memory drawing.

Our minds are capable of retaining images of things we have seen in our environment. For this reason, you can draw a market scene, wrestling scene, a classroom environment, etc. You do not require to see them physically before you draw them. Below are examples of imaginative drawing.

Imaginative painting

This is painting from memory or from imagination. Below are examples of imaginative painting.

Landscape drawing

This is the drawing of a scene of an environment including the various things such as sky, land, houses, trees etc. that exist in it.

Landscape Painting

This is the painting of a scene of an environment including the various things such as sky, land, houses, trees etc. that exist in it.

CLASS ACIVITY

Make a drawing and painting of any of the types of drawing and painting.

Summary

Drawing is the use of lines, shades and shapes to create an impression on a plane surface.

Painting is the use of colours to make an impression on a plane surface. There are various types of drawing and painting such as nature drawing and painting, still-life drawing and painting, life drawing and painting, imaginative drawing and painting, and landscape drawing and painting.

Review Questions

1. Explain the term, drawing
2. Explain the term, painting
3. List and explain the types of drawing
4. List and explain the types of painting
5. Make a drawing and painting based on any of the types of drawing and painting.